BAD MAN KILLED AND AN OFFICER BADLY WOUNDED

PAUL WELLMAN RESISTS ARREST
AND SHERIFF ED. WEBB KILLS HIM AFTER BE-ING SHOT.

At Catalpa last Monday Paul Wellman of Catlettsburg was killed and Deputy Sheriff Ed. Webb of Paducah was dangerously wounded.

Mr. Webb had a warrant for Wellman, who hid behind a clump of bushes and shot the officer five times. Mr. Webb returned the fire and one ball entered just under the heart, causing almost instant death.

Webb was shot in the lower part of the abdomen, cutting an intestine. Two other balls made slight wounds in the side, and two struck the right forearm, badly shattering the bones. Dr. Proctor Sparks went to Catalpa on a freight train and brought Mr. Webb to River-view hospital, where an operation was performed. He rallied nicely and up to this time has been doing well, giving considerable hope for his recovery.

Wellman was a son of Bent Wellman, of Catlettsburg, and had a bad record. He was about 30 years old. It is said he had served two terms in the Reform School and one in the penitentiary. Recently he had been charged with bootlegging in the neighborhood of Catalpa, which is at the mouth of Blaine, seven miles north of Louisa. It is reported that only last week he had several quarts of whiskey and two large pistols on display near a meeting or public gathering of some kind and was offering the liquor for sale by the drink or quart.

His wife came to Louisa Monday morning, carrying a baby, and procured a warrant charging Wellman with beating her. This was the warrant Mr. Webb was trying to execute. He summoned Virgil Skeens to assist him. Wellman was near the station when the sheriff got off of the train. He ran over the river bank and hid. When Webb and Skeens came close he opened fire. Both he and Webb used automatic pistols.

Mr. Webb is a good citizen and a fearless officer. He had just recovered from a long illness, and his wife died only a few months ago. Much sympathy is expressed for him and his recovery is sincerely hoped for.

Three Cornered Race For Governor in W. Va.

Charleston, W. Va., July 10.—The campaign slogans in West Virginia this fall will be "Cox and Koonits," for the Democrats; "Harding and McGowan," for the Republicans; and no one seems to be quite sure at this time whether it will be "Harding and Montgomery" or "Cox and Montgomery" for the Nonpartisan League.

In fact, there is said to be a tale to be told in regard to the presidential choice of the league, or it will be quite a tale by the time the matter is settled. On the settlement of the question, too, may depend the outcome of both state and national campaigns in this state, in so far as the offices of Governor and of President are concerned.

Samuel H. Montgomery, who first was a candidate for the Republican nomination for the Governorship in this recent primary election, was upon his defeat for that nomination, declared to be the nominee for the Governorship of the Nonpartisan League, whose support he had on a separate ticket.

He is now running for the office of Governor as a league candidate, though still proclaiming himself to be a Republican.

Shortage of Rail- road Facilities the Greatest Problem

The Manufacturers Record says: "We cannot distribute what we produce. Coal mines are idle, not for lack of miners, but for lack of cars. Last year's grain, to the extent of many millions of bushels, has piled to overflowing the elevators in parts of the grain region, and is piled up around, for lack of transportation, loaded cars by the tens of thousands. The idle on the tracks—we start to say for lack of locomotives, but it would be more correct to say because brain power failed to see and provide for the present situation."

"Where there is no vision the people perish." Holy Writ tells us, and there was no vision in the Interstate Commerce Commission when for years it denied the need for higher rates; there was no vision when legislators in national state affairs climbed the railroads almost unto death; no vision when business men, without investigation, fought higher freight rates; and for lack of vision, the country is perishing.

But there are others who lacked vision and still lack it sadly, and to that lack is due much of the shortighted vision of others. They are the railroad managers who ignored the public sentiment; who thought that everything done by a railway executive was ipso facto right and must be so regarded by the public. They ignored public sentiment; indeed, they stamped it in the face constantly, and some of them are still doing so.

WILL VISIT OLD HOME.

Rev. J. C. Kazez of Brooksville, Fla., expects to visit Lawrence county about the first of August. He is now pastor of the Baptist church in Brooksville, having recently moved there from Jacksonville. He receives a good salary. Last May his expenses were paid to a Baptist convention which was held in Washington, D. C.

Rev. Kazez is a thirty second degree Mason.

He is a native of Lawrence county and his relatives and friends will be glad to hear of his success in the south and hope to have the pleasure of hearing him preach or lecture while here. He is owner and manager of a church paper—The Religious Digest.

STREET PAVING.

The work of paving Louisa's streets will start as soon as plant and materials can be shipped in. The car shortage is interfering with shipping very greatly. Engineer Gwatney, of Huntington, is here to supervise the paving.

MOVING TO CATLETTSBURG.

Mr. W. N. Sullivan was in Louisa Sunday visiting relatives and friends. He has resigned as guard in the penitentiary and has accepted a position in Ashland. His family is moving from Frankfort to Catlettsburg where they will reside.

MR. POSEY MADE DIST. ENGINEER

Mr. M. E. S. Posey has been promoted by the State Road department to the position of District Engineer, with headquarters at Ashland. He succeeds T. H. Webster, who has left Louisa and has gone there to look after them.

Mr. Posey has been at Louisa for a few months in charge of the survey and location of the Mayo Trail from Ashland to Pikeville. He is a very efficient engineer and official. Louisa regrets that Mr. Posey and his force are moved from here. The office equipment was shipped to Ashland Wednesday.

The survey of various routes thru Lawrence-co. has been made and this work will be pushed right along.

HENRY FORD BUYS DETROIT, TOLEDO AND IRONTON R. R.

WANTS BETTER COAL DELIVER-IES FROM THE BIG SANDY AND ADJACENT FIELDS.

Detroit, July 10.—Purchase of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad by Henry Ford and his son, Edsel B. Ford, was announced today by E. G. Leibold, secretary to Henry Ford. The purchase price was not disclosed.

Purchase of the road was, in part, the outgrowth of difficulties Michigan industries have experienced for several years in obtaining coal from the Southeastern soft coal fields.

Running direct to Detroit from the coal fields and avoiding the usually congested gateways of Ohio, the line was recognized as a big factor in the state's coal supply by the Michigan Manufacturers' Association, which several months ago had appointed a committee to look into its purchase. The plan was abandoned, however, when it was found dock facilities could not be obtained.

Mr. Ford then took up negotiations primarily to assure, his Detroit factories an adequate fuel supply, but through contemplated extension of terminal industries generally in the Detroit area and those in other Michigan cities are expected to benefit by the deal.

Negotiations for the purchase of the road had been under way several weeks. Security holders deposited their bonds under an option good until August 1. At that time it was said the deal would involve approximately $4,000,000.

In announcing the road's purchase Mr. Leibold declared the price was "several hundred thousand more than was originally asked," adding that Mr. Ford desired that no stockholder should sacrifice his holdings. Some 2,000 employees of the railroad, Mr. Leibold added, will immediately receive the benefits of the Ford wage-bonus plan.

It was stated the name of the railroad will be changed, but that few changes will be made in its personnel. In providing passenger service it is intended, according to the announcement, to utilize the new gasoline-driven car of the interurban type which Ford-engineers have developed.

TWO DROWN AT WILLIAMSON.

At Williamson, W. Va., last Monday Gertrude Garnet, 14, was drowned in Tug river while swimming with several girls and boys.

The cries of the children attracted the attention of Sam Davis, a colored employee of the Laclede Coal Co., who attempted to rescue the drowning child. Davis could not swim himself and was wearing rubber boots, but he made a heroic effort and gave up his life in the gallant attempt to render aid.

Both bodies were recovered.

U. S. PRINTS MAP OF KENTUCKY FIELDS

Washington, D. C.—Locations of various kinds of coal in the Eastern and Western Kentucky fields are shown in a large map of the coal fields of the United States now being distributed by the Geological Survey.

This map, which measures four and one-half by seven feet, shows the coal fields by a series of colors indicating the seven different kinds of coal as it is classed by the Geological Survey—anthracite, semi-bituminous, high-grade bituminous, low-grade bituminous, lignite and coking coal. Besides the coal fields, this map shows all the cities, railroads, lakes and other features that are found on a map of this size.

The maps are being sold by the Geological Survey for $1.00 or 60c if five or more maps are ordered together.

REV. F. F. SHANNON SPEAKS IN BOSTON

The Boston Transcript has the following report of an address made there a few days ago by Louisa's most noted son:

Declaring that the soul of America had been temporarily debauched, and that the nation is essentially sunk and will never get back on her international obligations, Rev. Frederick F. Shannon, pastor of the Central Congregational Church of Chicago, stirred his hearers to applause today at the meeting in the Park Street Church. The speaker maintained that absolute independence of any creature or nation is utterly impossible, and to attempt to obtain it unpeppably foolish. "We shall always keep our independence," he said, "No nation from across the sea can deprive us of it. If we lose it the cause will arise from within, but for good or ill we have been placed together on this planet and we must realize the great principle of interdependence as well as that of self independence."

The meeting was held under the auspices of the International Congregational Council, now convening in Boston, and the topic chosen by Rev. Mr. Shannon was "The Voice of God in American History." He emphasized the three principles of action which Christians must interpret as lessons drawn from the past. Independence, interdependence, and dependence on God alone. Dividing the history of this country roughly into five periods: 1492, when the drama of discovery was enacted; 1620, when the band of Pilgrim Fathers reached these shores; 1776, when the embattled farmers stood for their rights; 1861, when the principle of government of, by and for the people was tested; and 1917, when America faced a new order of things in the world; the speaker saw behind the shifting scenes the hand of the Almighty moving his wonders to perform.

"Not only do we need today to maintain our ancestral spirit of a deep, creating, transforming independence," said Mr. Shannon, "but we must broaden our relations with other races and other nations. Too long have Christian people been the puppets of political parties, worshipping the gods of this world. The hour has come to seek for brotherly interdependence under the laws of righteousness, justice and truth, regardless of partisan selfishness and dissensions. We must stand firmly by the ideals brought over by that little company of pilgrims 300 years ago—ideals that no henchman of Caesar can properly appreciate. Ideals inspired by the still, small voice which parties cannot hear, but which pleads that the people of Christ may recognize their brethren of all nations and live together in spiritual unity wrought by the power of the most high."

"But the clearest message sounded forth today by the voice of God is that which calls for faithful dependence upon the Almighty. It is the message of the authors of the Mayflower Pact, who wrote: 'We have come into these parts of America to enjoy the liberty of the Gospel in purity and increase.' Could a more auspicious time be chosen to carry this message to a nation pausing at the crossroads of the world in a maze of history? No man or group of men may wield the power today to lead this nation to the highroad of the everlasting truth for which our fathers died. The lesson of the past leads inevitably to the truth of the supreme power of God. He alone can deliver us out of our dilemma."

Sam Crabtree Sentenced for Robbery at Paintsville

Sam Crabtree, of Louisa, has been sentenced to the penitentiary for seven years for burglarizing a jewelry store and a furniture store at Paintsville. He was arrested at Ironton and had some of the stolen jewelry on his person. He was taken to Paintsville Saturday. Circuit court is in session there and Crabtree pleaded guilty. Charles Melvin, 18 years old, arrested as Crabtree's accomplice, was given only one year because of his age and the fact that this is his first offense.

Crabtree has served several terms in the Kentucky and West Virginia penitentiaries, and was paroled only a few months ago from West Virginia, where he was serving a life sentence.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

(Citizens are welcome to use this column for discussion of matter of public interest. Name of author must accompany each letter to protect us from libel but need not be printed unless desired. If the article keeps within reasonable bounds. Be as brief as possible.—Editor.)

The County Judge Replies.

I notice in an issue of this paper of date July 9th, an article "Why Can't We Have Our Roads Improved?" which article was signed "A Taxpayer" and it is the intention of this article to answer that "Taxpayer" through the columns of this paper as I cannot do it personally for the reason that I do not have the remotest idea as to who wrote it, and another reason is that its author might think I was answering it for a personal reason, and another is it is due the people to know why certain conditions exist. If I did not answer it I would certainly be branded as a Moral Coward, a thing I have not yet, to my knowledge, been accused of.

You will notice in the article that he repeated "that he was sorry and for the world would not say anything that would ruffle the feelings of any county official." Now, I will be just as courteous as he and say that I have never been guilty, nor can I be truthfully said of me, that I have ever knowingly or intentionally insulted, publicly or privately, any one, nor do I know that this "Taxpayer" meant this as an insult. My private opinion is that he used his tongue instead of his head, and I am addressing this article to the people and ask them to read it in its entirety and draw their own conclusions as to whether I am trying to do my duty.

When I came into office two and one half years ago there was a new bond issue of $50,000.00, all told, that had rightfully and justly been levied by the former court for the purpose of paying off old judgments and outstanding claims, some of which had been allowed by all the courts for at least twenty years back and had never been taken up and there was no other way by which to pay them. These bonds drew 5 1/2 per cent interest payable semi-annually and each year of said bonds were to be taken up and it has fallen to our lot to be the first to pay any of this interest or take up any of these bonds. We will have paid at the end of this year $1095.00 on them, a drain upon us that no other Fiscal Court ever had to contend with.

At the end of the first year of my administration the roads of the county were in as good condition as they were formerly for prices of material and labor were normal. Now I am not going to use that word that most everybody tries to hide behind when speaking of the high cost of living, but will just say that this late "Universal Unpleasantness" grabbed us up, and is yet soaring; not only that, but for the reason of the great development that is now going on in the county, farmers are unable to get help on their farms without paying two or three and in many instances four times the price they paid two years ago. Labor that we could get two and one half years ago for $1.50 per day now cost us, when we can get it at all, $3.00 to $5.00 per day. Teams that were then begging for work at $4.00 to $5.00 per day now laugh at you for an offer of less than $8.00 or $9.00 per day. All men that will work have got a job and all teams that are of any account have all the work they want and the proposition of getting teams or men is next to impossible. We have had, however, one or two good teams and men and we kept them as long as we could.

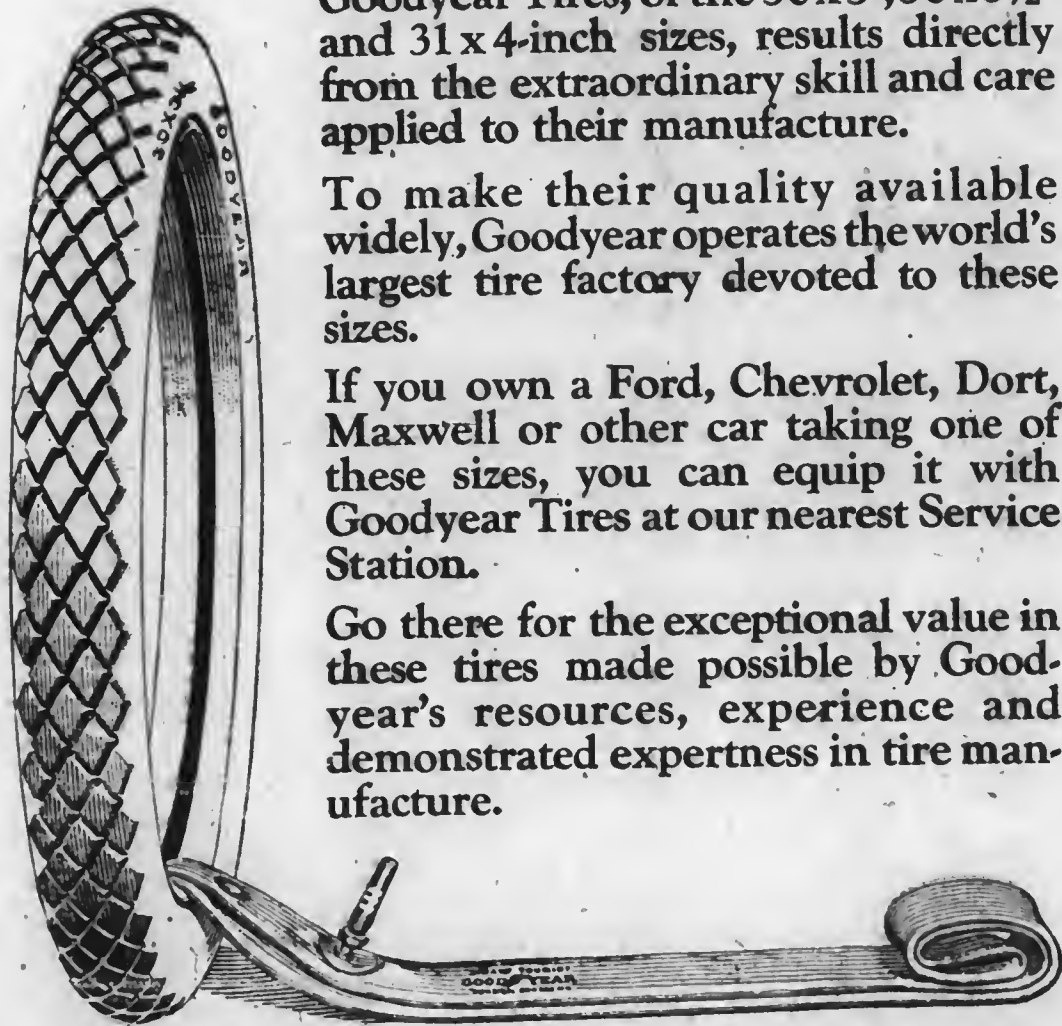

The cost of material three years ago and now has very materially changed. Culvert material, tile that is large enough to give any service, runs in price from $1.00 to 4.00 per foot; metal culverts large enough to give any service at all ranges from $1.15 per foot to $13.16 per foot; lumber that could be bought three years ago for $25 and $30 per thousand now costs from $60 to $90 per thousand in addition to its delivery.

And in view of the fact of these abnormal prices of material and labor, taxes, up until this year and which have not been collected, have not increased one cent, neither has the 600 miles of road in this county lost any of its length, and there is just as many bridges and culverts now as there were three years ago and two more for we have built two new bridges at an approximate cost of $5500. I have given to the people a vote twice upon a 20 cent road tax and they very promptly voted it down both times. And yet "Mr. Taxpayer" you "who proposes to have the taxpayers of the county, both Democrats and Republicans, to work out some plan by which the roads can be made passable" you "who would throw us out of office and elect some real progressive man" what can you expect in view of all of this? If you can find some man or set of men that can make roads out of rain water and mud and without labor or material or funds necessary; if you can find some MONIES, as it were, I say "Amen" bring him forth and we will be tickled to death to discuss the proposition with him.

"Mr. Taxpayer" if you would care to investigate I think you will find that, in a radius of eight or ten miles around Louisa, and within the last year and a half, transportation has increased 300 per cent and this has been due to the very heaviest of machinery. If you will remember back eight months, you will remember that we had a very

SUBSCRIBER

BUCHANAN

Another well known citizen has gone to the great beyond.

John A. Compton of Huletts, Ky., was born Feb. 9, 1847, died June 12, 1920. A wife and 11 children survive him. One son and daughter passed over. He held the office of Magistrate in this district for about 30 years. He was very popular and an excellent electioneer, always defeating his opponent; as a member of the Fiscal court he was very prominent and always in his place and tried to look after the best interest of his county. He was very sociable in his nature, had a good word for all. All who became acquainted with him always remembered him. He was an all around good citizen and will be greatly missed. We do not know that he professed any religion in his early life, but we are told that since the death of his daughter, who left such wonderful evidence of her acceptance with God before she departed this life he had lived a different life. His closest friends have strong hopes that he made his peace with God and fulfilled the promise to his dying daughter to meet her in heaven.

NO MORE PANICS, SAYS LARGE BANK

Confidence that the currency and banking system of the United States has made the country "panic-proof" under wise financial leadership is expressed by the National Bank of Commerce in New York in an article bearing the title, "The Normal Business Cycle." The Federal Reserve system, the bank says, has been devised to make panics impossible in the future, and there is abundant reason to expect that we shall not see again in this country such demoralization and chaos in the money market as the years 1893 or 1907 witnessed.

"Crises come when active business men find that their creditors, whether banks or investors or other business men, begin to insist upon a contraction of credit and a liquidation of debts. A crisis means the end of a boom period, the inauguration of a period of slow business and depression, accompanied by a settling up of debts and a readjustment of prices."

"Periods of reaction and liquidation relieve misadjustment and strain. They prevent unsound policies from being carried too far. They give time for the maturing of new plans and for the careful introduction of new processes. They check wastes and restore efficiency. They ally financial fever. They need mitigation and control—but progressively we are learning to mitigate and to control them."

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

In The Shadows.
When the twilight shadows gently
Play,
And even's stillness hovers night,
As sunset's glory dims the day,
And crimson all the western sky,
My little one, in spotless white,
Kneels by me in the afterglow,
And, with a kiss and fond goodnight, Cuddles, "Now I lay me," soft and low.

Close snuggled in a snowy heap,
My babe repeats her evening prayer:
"I pray thee, Lord, my soul to keep"
She lies upon the quiet air,
And back in years I'm carried then,
In childhood's days I seem to be,
And I am just a boy again, Bowed low before my mother's knee.

And mother's face is pressed to mine,
My little evening prayer to bless,
As gentle loving arms entwine
About me in a soft caress.
And as I whisper at her feet:
"If I should die before I wake,"
The shadows echo and repeat:
"I pray thee, Lord, my soul to take."
—Lincoln Journal.

Don't neglect your mind. A little reading every day to store the mind with knowledge, a little quiet thinking to make what you read your own, a little pleasant conversation to stimulate your wit—these things are as necessary to women as to men and make them delightful and interesting companions.

We heard the other day of a home that was almost too bad to be true yet it was a good example of the poor management shown by the working class of America since they have been receiving their present exorbitant wages. The mother was sick in bed but had no night gown. The children never took off their clothes but slept on bundles of rags on the floor. The only pieces of furniture in the living room were a broken down rocker and a Victrola with about thirty "Jazz" records. And the father had a thousand dollars invested in oil stock.

She came to the breakfast table in a torn, soiled dress, with half combed hair. The table was without a cloth, the breakfast badly cooked. The children were dirty and quarrelsome, and she saw them slip away to school without attempting to wash their faces or change their soiled aprons. Her husband had hastily swallowed a cup of coffee and left the house without a word to his wife or children.

She sat for a while gazing indif-ferently at the untidy table and disorderly room, and then began lazily to set things in order. She dawdled over her work without spirit or system, and the children were home from school before the beds had been touched. The two oldest girls hurried up stairs with scowling faces at her scolding command to them to make up the beds. Dinner was half an hour late and her husband stumped up and down the untidy house, ate an ill-cooked dinner in sullen silence and hurried from the unpleasant home. The children followed, scattering to the neighbors, to the barn, anywhere away from home and mother. The darkness drove the various members of the family into the house again, but they came unwillingly, and slipped away to bed uncared for, cross and wretched with their badly nourished bodies, and hearts that hungered for the peace and comfort of home.

Do you think this is an exaggerated picture? It is not. There are homes just like this, and the dirt and disorder and discomfort and heartache lie at some woman's door.

For the overworked wife and mother, for the invalid, for the ignorant who are trying to learn, who are doing their best to bear a heavy burden, we offer pity, sympathy and help, but for the indolent woman we have only scorn.

IMPRISONED SOUL
OF AMERICA

That was an apparently sincere apostrophe in the "keynote" speech of Mr. Cummings when he addressed to the Deity that eloquent prayer:
"Oh, God! release the imprisoned soul of America; touch once more the hidden springs of the spirit and reveal us to ourselves."

There are multitudes of American citizens whose hearts will cry "Amen!"
to that petition. They believe that this nation has a soul, but that that soul has been drugged to sleep; has been shut up in the dungeon of a materialistic philosophy; is chained, for a time, to the pillar of greed for gold. They feel that for a few short months in the war it burst those bonds; came out into the sunlight of freedom; discovered its selfhood and revealed that selfhood to the world.
It was a period of joy; of spiritual satisfaction; of profoundest realization of its inherent majesty, its solemn duty and glorious destiny. That sudden burst of self-consciousness was a sublime experience; but, alas, is only a brilliant but fading memory.

That noble aspiration to save the world from its evils and its sins, and that generous purpose to lead the procession of nations to humanity's distant goal, have been dissipated like a morning mist. All sensitive spirits are conscious that the soul of the nation has been led back into its prison house and is grinding at the mill where dollars and not ideals are being coined.
Who does not feel with Mr. Cummings that we need once more to have "the hidden springs of the spirit" touched and made to gush again? Is there any man with soul so dead as not to look back with regret upon those days when sacrifice was the law of daily living; when everybody was asking "What can I do to win the war; to feed the hungry; to re-establish order and to save the world?"

If "fifty years in Europe are better than a cycle in Cathay" those few months of the emancipated spirit of this great nation, when all the springs of the spirit were pouring out their ethereal floods, were better than centuries of such selfish profligacy and mammon worship as we are guilty of today. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

FORMER MAYOR
INDORSES TANLAC

"YOU WILL HARDLY KNOW ME
WHEN WE MEET AGAIN; FOR I AM GETTING WELL."
HE WRITES FRIEND.

One of the latest additions to the list of leaders of thought and action who have come forward with their unqualified endorsement of Tanlac is the name of Hon. Frank V. Evans, former Mayor of Birmingham, Ala., ex-State Examiner of Public Accounts of Alabama, and at one time editor of one of the South's greatest newspapers,
The Birmingham Age-Herald.

Writing to a personal friend in Atlanta, Mr. Evans says:
Birmingham, Ala., February 2.
"By the way, you will hardly know me when we meet again, because I am getting so well and strong again. As I told you while in Atlanta last month, I have been suffering a long time with gastritis, the doctors call it—really a disordered stomach with consequent constipation, pains in the shoulders, headache, belching, heartburn, loss of appetite, loss of sleep, and fainting spells. For weeks
I could not sleep on my back.

"One week ago, upon recommendation of friends who had tried the medicine, I purchased one bottle of Tanlac and began taking it. Since my second dose I have suffered none of these troubles to which I refer, and really believe I am going to get perfectly well and strong again. Won't that be wonderful at my age? Well, certainly it is that Tanlac is a wonderful medicine, and you know I am not given to 'puffing' mere experiments and am rather orthodox as to materia medica.

"I shall continue the treatment with perfect confidence in the final results."

Signed
"FRANK V. EVANS."

H. Reynolds.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

We are authorized to announce CHARLEY EDWARDS as a candidate for the Republican nomination for County Clerk of Lawrence co., at the primary to be held in August, 1921.

Jeff Newberry, of Huntington, is a member of the committee that will officially notify Gov. Cox of his nomination for President. They are bound to have a big Sandian right along at the head of all the big doings.

The subject of roads and mudholes has almost swamped the News this week. Both sides are talking in this issue. We are publishing a newspaper, through which citizens have a right to discuss matters of vital public interest. We give all sides the same chance to be heard.

An important feature of the week was the declaration of Rev. George Waggoner, Representative from Scott county and leader of the prohibition forces in the Kentucky House, that he is unreservedly for Cox.

"I was won over to Cox when he spoke in Georgetown," Rev. Mr. Waggoner said, "and he has been my choice from the start. What I saw and heard impressed me that he is a man of breadth and vision and a man of action."

"Prohibition is an accomplished fact, you know. I don't know anything about being wet or dry now. We want to look ahead and go ahead, and he has struck me as a progressive. He must have made a good Governor and a good Governor ought to make a good President."

open winter and that it has rained almost continually, especially this spring and yet some men will tell you to work on the road when it is too wet to do anything else. There has been quite a lot of work done on the road this spring and a little observation will show you, owing to the continuous rain, that these places are in a worse condition now than before they were worked. Yet some men will tell you to fill mud holes with rock, and any man that knows anything about road surface that it makes two more mud holes. I am sure the people of the county do not want their money wasted and what is the use to throw this money in mud holes that can not be made better, owing to the unsettled condition of the weather. Would it not be money to use it when and where you can get permanent results?

I grant you that we may have made mistakes, but you show me a man who makes no mistakes and I will show you a man that has never done anything, yes I will go further and say, you show me a man that never makes mistakes and I will show you a man with hair on his eye ball as long as a cow's tail.

You speak of the Mayo Trail. If you knew of the awful amount of work and thought and responsibility and worry that is heaped upon me in trying to get this, the biggest proposition that has ever confronted a county official, established somewhere in the county, as soon as possible and work started thereon, you would doubtless look upon me with compassion and at least with some sympathy instead of public insult and contempt. If you meant it that way, Now "Mr. Taxpayer" you said "that you would not ruffle the feelings of any county official" and I take it that you told the truth, but will you tell the people just what actuated you to write this article? Was it to further your private interest or are you interested in the welfare of the people generally? If it was the latter please just tell the people what assistance you have given the officials of the county and the community at large in promoting this great undertaking or any other assistance that you have offered? You say we have been "inactive" and should earn the salary we receive, do you as a "Taxpayer" begrudge this to us? If you do, show the people that we are not trying to do something along this line and that it does not take some time and attention and support your statements with facts.

I can not ask too much of the printer at this time and in confusion "Mr. Taxpayer" if you should choose to answer this just come across and say that you were not informed of the real existing conditions of county affairs, and that you had not given it much thought or be patriotic enough to suggest some real remedy for the betterment of conditions. You know "Mr. Taxpayer" that it is easy to tell the other fellow but just place yourself in his position; just look through his eyes once and you will see quite a different situation. If all the people who are knocking public officials would expend the same energy in trying to support them, trying to help them devise plans and means to promote public welfare, what a different situation would exist.

Now, "Mr. Taxpayer" should you choose to answer this will you please sign your name to the article and let the people judge of your knowledge and experience in public life and it might be that you would be, against your will possibly, drafted to lead a good roads crusade. We might get good roads without money, without any activity or thought upon the part of public officials; they might just grow up in a night like Johnathan's Gourd, or, just happen, like Topsy. Will you please tell the people what training, knowledge, information or other asset you possess that qualifies you to pass in judgment upon the various duties and responsibilities of public officials?

I repeat "Mr. Taxpayer" that I do not have the slightest idea of your identity and I trust that I have said nothing that would ruffle your feelings or at which you can get offended in the least, for you may be my friend and be it far from me to offend a friend or any one else.

Respectfully submitted for the consideration of the people.

BILLIE RIFTE, County Judge.

GIVE US BETTER ROADS!
I would like to shake hands with the man who wrote the article in last week's NEWS on our roads. I heartily agree with him in thinking the political sentiment should be laid aside and more attention be paid to the awful condition of our roads. They are almost impassable and getting worse. There has been ample time for the mud holes to have been drained and filled, but practically nothing has been done.

A few mud holes have been inadequately filled with brush and dirt, only to be all the worse after another rain.

This is only a waste of money and labor and merely helps the road between showers.

I am like the correspondent, I do not wish to offend our county officials, but it is plain to all thinking people who have the interest of their community at heart, that the county officials are NOT doing their duty and are failing to do short of the promises they made before being elected. Our county judge solemnly declared before he was elected that he would build a new road in a certain place. Today that place is the same unbroken black hole it was then. However, he could be excused for that if he would see that the roads we already have are made passable. And we all know, that he is the man to start the ball rolling towards better roads.

I know of twelve or more oil wells in this neighborhood that have a large pit of cinders at each one, left from coal burned when the well was drilled. These cinders make good filling and there is enough at each well to fill at least six holes. And they may be had for the hauling and all that requires is a man with a wagon, team and shovel. With proper drainage a mud hole can be filled with cinders and it will make a substantial piece of road. There are other communities in the county where they have more cinders than we have here and there are countless mud holes to be filled everywhere.

Some mud holes have been filled with sand rocks. It has been proved over and over that it is not successful as the teams passing over them crush them into sand and heavy rains wash them out. A dry road means a good road. If the county officers would put men on the roads to drain them right that alone would prevent most of the bad mud holes. We can't expect a good road in a creek bed.

The fear of the county getting into debt should be second.

In my opinion it is better to have the county in debt and HAVE roads than to have it in debt and NOT have roads. I am for the kind of road that a man can haul twenty crossbills on instead of eight, and that you can run an automobile over without having it stop at every farm house to get a team to pull you out.

Sentiment is steadily growing against county officials who permit such conditions. This Hip Van Winkle method of looking after the affairs of the county should be tolerated no longer. I'm strongly in favor of a recall election.

Give us men of action. Looks to me like it is about time for them to get busy or get out.

If any of the officials want to make any reply to this the most appropriate way to do it, in my opinion, would be to put a crew to work on the roads and answer by doing something—not talking.

A BUSSEYVILLE CITIZEN.

ANOTHER TAXPAYER.

"Taxpayer," you are right. Give us less politics and more roads. More action and less idleness. The people voted a big bond issue last year. The officials sat still and lost the State Aid. They are sitting still yet and losing thousands of dollars every day for the people. Business is drowned in mud holes.

"Do it today" instead of next fall or next year is a motto badly needed here.

"Keeping everlastingly at it brings success," prevents mud holes, cures mud holes, maintains roads.

"A switch in time saves nine" and a ditch in time saves a road. A lek with a pick at the right time and spot saves a thousand later on.

Talk about being in debt. Nothing costs as much as bad roads. They bankrupt everybody. What profit it a county to save a few dollars and bust all its citizens? The heaviest tax in the world is bad roads. Two extra teams and seven men were working recently to get a wagon out of a mud hole. A man came along on horseback and said, "Well, you are paying road tax now, sure enough." One of them replied, "Yes, and every cent of it is wasted. This hole will be just as bad when we get out and pay for this help as it was before."

Mud holes have cost the people of Lawrence county $250,000 in the last four months and we still have the mud holes. Our roads are worse right now than they should be in mid-winter. Excessive rain is no excuse. Drainage takes care of that. Drainage will prevent mud holes. It will cure mud holes caused by neglect.

One honest, sensible man can keep 20 miles of road passable working five days a week.

Your paper once referred to our roads as "an epidemic of mud holes." They might also be called a chain of frog ponds, so close together that the bull frogs are flirting with each other constantly. This is disgraceful. Drainage will stop this flirting.

"Let nature take her course" is the motto in Lawrence county. Give us some modern surgery, some heroic treatment, and give it to us now.

Sunday, July 11, is reported as having been an exceptionally good day at the Louisa Christian church. Two real stirring gospel messages were delivered by Evangelist Henry W. Schwan and six were added to the church, all of whom were baptized at an afternoon service.

Louisa Bible School is leading by 231 points in the contest with Paintsville Christian Bible School.

At a meeting of Bible School workers it was decided to make Sunday, July 20, a special "Every member present and as many more as day."

Some special features for the day are being arranged, one of which will be a special address to all adults of Evangelist Schwan on the subject: "Thy Love To Me Was Wonderful." It was urged that every member plan now to come and to bring another.

JAS. D. BELLA, Pastor

As Rev. Bell will preach the Baccalaureate sermon for Kentucky Normal College graduates next Sunday night no services will be held at the church.

For the accommodation of those persons who call for sermons, Rev. J. D. Bell has delivered two or three of the short kind. At the close of the first one he read the following verses:

Backward Turned.

He was a preacher,
Brave and bold—
Weekly he preached to a weekly fold
Good was the story of life he told,
Staunch as gold—
He was a preacher,
Brave and bold.

They were a people,
Kind and cold—
Weekly they list to the story old
Told by the preacher of scholarly mould,
Gowned and stoted—
They were a people,
Kind and cold.

One morning as the preacher took His Golden Text from God's Good book,
He wore a wondering, wilder'd look.
The people, from their cozy nook,
Had passed up word—as to a cook,
The polished preacher-prophet shook

The "passed-up word" was "Cut it short."
The "shake" was of the wrathful sort,
But wisely keeping from retort

He "cut" his sermon into half—
Left out the wheat—and gave them chaff.
And thus evolved—
The Sermonette.

The congregation grew in size;
All praised the preacher to the skies,
But wise folk noted, with surprise,
That he who used to make them think

Began, by leaps and jumps, to shrink
And thus evolved—
The Preacherette.

And so, while folks filled every pew,
The souls of saints no fatter grew;
For sermons short brought shorter view

Of faith and hope and love and peace
Of cross and crown and sin's release,
And thus evolved—
The Peoplette.

Gone is the preacher-prophet bold—
He's shepherding a sinner fold.
They hear a message fully told,
Gone is the flock that craved the half
Of the "Sermonette." Weep—don't laugh!

And thus evolved—
The Sign To-Let-It-Be.

in the Presbyterian.

ROOSEVELT FOR VICE PRESIDENT

By the nomination of Roosevelt the Democratic National Convention has added strength to its ticket in places where strength will be needed, declares the New York World, which goes on to say:

"Mr. Roosevelt is a young man, in full vigor of mind and body. As the convention has seen, he has the courage of his convictions and the habit of independence. His selection will appeal to the younger elements in the party and should be well received by the great and growing army of independent voters who form an important element in all American elections at the polls."

In the opinion of the Brooklyn Eagle no other choice for the Vice Presidential nomination could have done so much as that of Roosevelt does to strengthen the Democratic national ticket "with free-thinking independence who have watched his course in politics with the warmest sympathy, the most unqualified approval."

Roosevelt, says the Atlanta Constitution, is a man of proven constructive ability, of vision and attainment

The celebration and children's day at Green Valley the 4th was one of the greatest and best ever held here from every point of view. The congregation was large and representative. People from different sections of the country and the best people at that. While the congregation was large the behavior and conduct of those present show that they were real ladies and gentlemen and that they came not merely to be present but to assist in the exercise. The hospitality of the people of Green Valley is genuine and real and knows no bounds when it comes to preparing for a convention or celebration. What a dinner and how the people enjoyed it! The singing was superb with Miss Hazel Graham, organist. The speaking was far above the average. M. S. Burns of Louisa delivered a fine address as he always does on such occasions. J. P. Prince of Irad showed that he had the work of Sunday school at heart and is willing to make sacrifices to advance the work. The address of V. B. Shortridge was to the point and was well received. The address of Isaac Cunningham on the Declaration of Independence was one of the best speeches that was ever delivered at Green Valley. Esq. B. F. Diamond delivered a most eloquent address. The recitations were very appropriate and showed what training will accomplish.

All in all, it is the consensus of opinion, that it was the best convention ever held at Green Valley.

"A SPLENDID TONIC"

Says Hixson Lady Who, On Doctor's Advice, Took Cardui And Is Now Well.

Hixson, Tenn.—"About 10 years ago I was..." says Mrs. J. B. Gadd, of this place. "I suffered with a pain in my left side, could not sleep at night with this pain, always in the left side..."

My doctor told me to use Cardui. I took one bottle, which helped me and after my baby came, I was stronger and better, but the pain was still there.

I at first let it go, but began to get weak and in a run-down condition, so I decided to try some more Cardui, which I did.

This last Cardui which I took made me much better. In fact, cured me. It has been a number of years, still I have no return of this trouble.

I feel it was Cardui that cured me, and I recommend it as a splendid female tonic.

Don't allow yourself to become weak and run-down from womanly troubles. Take Cardui. It should surely help you, as it has so many thousands of other women in the past 40 years. Headache, backache, sideache, nervousness, sleeplessness, tired-out feeling, are all signs of womanly trouble. Other women get relief by taking Cardui. Why not you? All druggists.

HISTORY OF GOV. JAS. M. COX, OF OHIO

Governor James M. Cox, Democratic candidate for the Presidency, was born on a farm near Jacksonburg, Butler county, Ohio, March 31, 1870, the son of Gilbert and Eliza A. Cox. As a boy he learned to know what it was to work early in the morning and late at night. As soon as he was able to lend a hand he passed more time at work than at play.

The earliest recollection he has told friends, is that his mother placed a big, old-fashioned horse collar on the floor and placed him in it, so he couldn't crawl around while she was doing housework. That was before the days of fancy, modern pens or coops. To purchase such a convenience was unthinkable in the Cox home, and to make one took too much time for a busy farmer.

Cox attended county schools and later was graduated from the Middletown High School. He always was earning money of his own by all sorts of tasks. For some time he was janitor in a rural school. Later he was a newsboy and "printer's devil" in Middletown, doing those things to earn a few dollars to help finance his way through high school, which looked to him like an advanced education. He never attended college.

After he won his high school diploma he taught in a rural school for several years. He liked the newspaper and printshop better, however. After learning the printer's trade he became a reporter on the Middletown News-Signal, then and still owned by John Q. Baker, Cox's brother-in-law.

One day a railroad wreck, in which a number of persons were killed, occurred at Heno, a small village near Middletown. Cox was correspondent for The Cincinnati Enquirer.

In order to monopolize the wire he tore a sheet off the News-Signal, gave it to the telegraph operator and said: "Send this until I return." Then he ran all the way to Heno, collected the facts and sent a lengthy story of the accident over the monopolized wire to The Enquirer. This incident landed for him a position on The Enquirer.

The Cox farm and homestead was sold and for years owned by persons not related to the Cox family. It has been purchased, however, by the Governor, who has restored the sunbaked brick house he was born in to its original appearance, so far as possible. On the farm he conducts general agriculture and has a fine herd of high-grade Hereford cattle. Cox's secretaryship to the late Congressman Paul J. Sorg was a valuable experience for young Cox, and no doubt gave to him ambition to serve in Congress himself sooner or later.

Upon expiration of Mr. Sorg's term Cox managed to borrow sufficient capital to purchase the run-down, wheezing-for-breath Daily News in Dayton. His struggles in this undertaking, which more than once was at the verge of a breakdown, but eventually succeeded, are known to all Dayton citizens. To this day they take a delight in relating how poorly Cox began and the success which finally became his.

He purchased the Dayton paper in 1898. Five years later he again went into the borrowing business in order to purchase the Springfield Press-Republic, which was "on the rocks." Overnight Cox changed its name to The News, its time of publication from morning to evening and its politics from Republican to Democratic, and from that time on it gradually returned to a normal basis.

Both newspapers to-day are highly profitable institutions. A new building, with modern equipment, has been erected for each. Throughout his 20 years of public service in Washington and Columbus Cox has kept in close touch with all departments of his two papers. He still writes an occasional news story, and more often an editorial.

Cox was elected to Congress in 1895 and re-elected in 1910. In this capacity he attracted the attention of state Democratic leaders and in 1912, at the last nominating convention conducted in the state, he became the party's candidate for Governor. That was the year when the Republican party split. Ohio had both a Republican and Progressive state ticket, and Cox's election, of course, was a foregone conclusion.

He did not take things easy during the campaign, however. He stumped the state in behalf of a progressive constitution and other progressive legislation that he was ambitious to see in Ohio. The "new era in Ohio," or "the new order of things," he termed his program of 16 progressive measures, each of which was enacted during his first administration and remains on the books to this day.

In the list are compulsory workmen's compensation system, rural school reorganization with a view to centralization of one-room district schools, statewide primary elections, initiative and referendum in state legislation, home rule for cities, nonpartisan judiciary, civil service, budget system for state finances, widows' pensions, prison reform, a state-wide main market and intercounty road system, etc.

It apparently proved to be too much, however, to be assimilated at one time and Cox antagonized many of the interests it affected. The result was defeat for re-election in 1914. Two years later he came back with a "finish-the-job" program and was elected to a second term.

Then came the war with resultant activities, which made Cox the logical candidate for a third term. He had no platform other than a "win-the-war" plank and delivered not a campaign speech.

The Ohio Executive himself was foremost among war Governors almost as soon as it became apparent that the United States was in a struggle that would determine whether its existence as a nation was to be continued and Governor Cox maintained Ohio as a leader among states in every sort of war activity. This was by no means surprising to those who had been in position to know the quality of his executive ability.

More notable, though, was the contact that Governor Cox kept with the Ohio boys and men who went to fight. In the face of obstacles that time after time seemed to be insurmountable the Governor succeeded in gaining permission from the War Department to raise and have mustered into Federal service a complete division of infantry, and the Thirty-seventh or "Buckeye" Division with its long record of combat service in the trenches of Lorraine, the offensive in the Argonne, the front line at St. Mihiel and on the fields of Belgium is the monument left in history that speaks the results of his efforts.

Months before this unit left the United States, however, another Ohio organization, the One Hundred and Sixty-sixth Infantry, recruited under state control, had been honored with a place as one of the four infantry regiments in the Forty-second, or "Rainbow" Division.

And when volunteering was closed by War Department orders, thousands of Ohioans still were to follow. Many of them, members of the Eighty-third Division, were to see active service with our allies in Italy, and many more were to take the places of those who had fallen in the ranks fighting in divisions from other states.

Ohio troops thus became important factors in the fighting machine that the United States constructed. Still never were the men in these units permitted to forget that the state which sent them against the enemy was not unmindful of their welfare. They were in a machine and part of one, but they still were sons of Ohio who knew that Ohio's Executive was watching over them.

In training camp the Governor was directly in touch with their progress. He visited them and made it his business to "know what was going on." He traveled to the dismal, rain-soaked cotton fields of Alabama where the Buckeye division was in training at Christmas time on the "Santa Claus" special and brought gifts that the men who were to sail overseas in a few months might know their state remembered them in that holiday season, otherwise cheerless, and for many the last.

When these Ohio troops embarked their Governor was at the gang plank that they still might know that the prayers and hopes of those at home, represented by the state's Chief Executive, were with them. And when they were spared to return were under the wings of the state of debarcation, it was Governor Cox, who welcomed them back to the United States and to Ohio.

His election in 1918 made him the only Democrat to have been elected Governor three times in the normally Republican state of Ohio. The only Republican elected to three terms was Rutherford B. Hayes, who was elevated to the White House before expiration of his last term.

Governor Cox is a lover of the outdoors—plays golf, hunts, fishes, rides horseback and takes long hikes. He is built stockily, with a strong neck, indicative of combativeness, and has remarkable physical endurance. He is an eloquent campaigner and after-dinner orator.

Governor Cox lives, when not at the executive house in Columbus, in a beautiful country home at Trail's End, near Dayton. He married twice. The present Mrs. Cox was Miss Margaretta Blair, daughter of Thomas S. Blair, Chicago business man. They have a seven-months-old daughter, Anna. Governor Cox's other children are Mrs. D. J. Mahoney, Dayton; James M. Jr., and John Cox. The boys are in school. The Governor is a member of a United Brethren Church, but attends an Episcopal Church with his wife.

One of Cox's best examples of coolness and ability was when Dayton and Miami were swept by a disastrous flood.

So promptly, so courageously and so efficiently did Governor Cox meet this emergency that newspapers, especially those in the East, devoted much space to the highest praise of his successful handling of a great crisis.

Governor Cox is reputed by his Dayton staff to be the "best reporter on the paper," a distinction of which he is proud. It is said of him that he can go out to lunch and come back with more news tips than any of his reporters. While he has been Governor Mr. Cox always has passed Saturdays afternoon and Monday mornings in his office in the Dayton News.

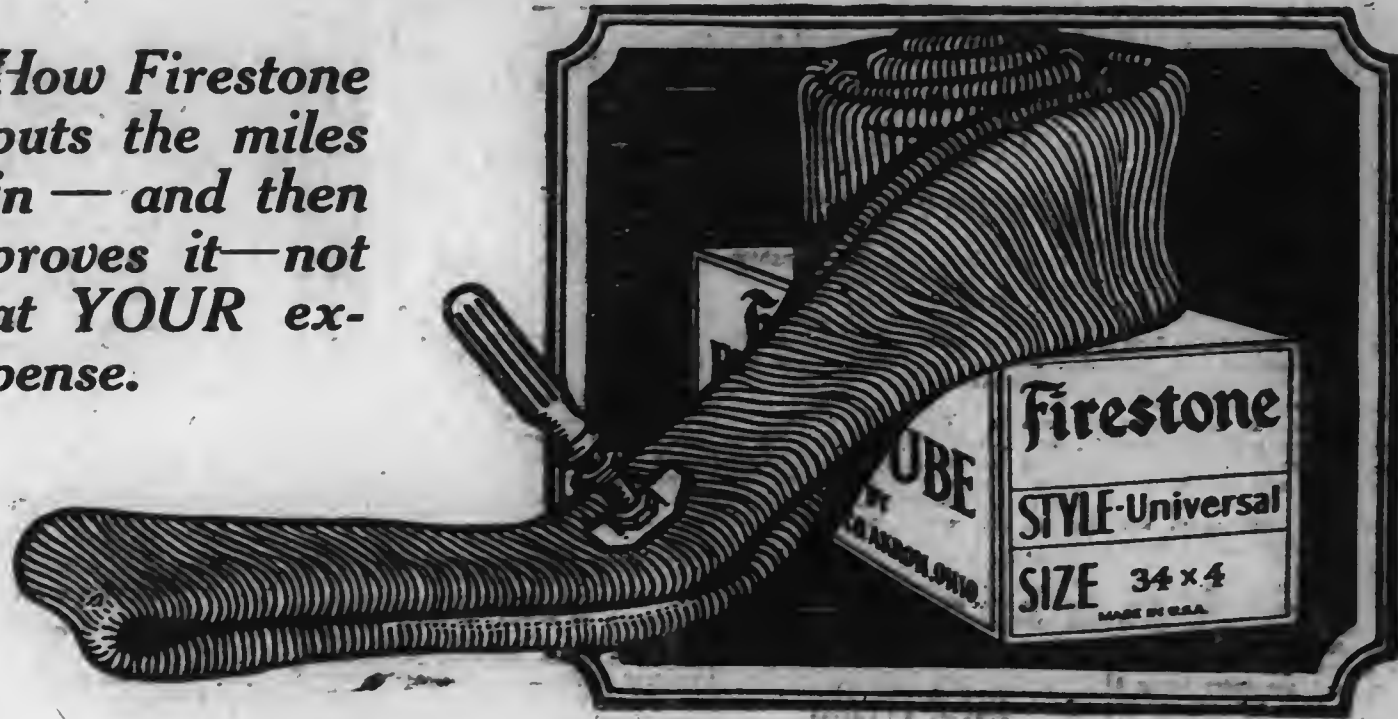

Cox has gained the reputation of being one of the hardest working Governors Ohio has had. About half of the time he does not leave his office for lunch, eating a sandwich and drinking a bottle of milk at his desk while working. He reaches his office early and leaves it late, frequently working at his desk until late in the night.

Cox's father, Gilbert Cox, is still living. He is 87 years old. The mother died five years ago.

The Cox family history dates back to the sixteenth century, when his ancestors settled in New Jersey. His grandfather, Gilbert Cox, came to Ohio in 1790. He was a stonemason and built houses in Butler county, which still are standing. He built the house in which both Governor Cox and the Governor's father were born.

A big-scale road test on 3,200 tubes

How Firestone puts the miles in — and then proves it—not at YOUR expense.

No other tubes in the world are road tested on so big a scale as Firestones. The Yellow Cab Company of Chicago uses Firestone Tubes exclusively on its 800 taxi cabs. The service of these tubes is checked constantly—improvements and developments are arrived at.

By close watching of a large number of tubes in service—not confined to isolated instances, the conclusions are accurate and definite.

Firestone puts the best in materials into tubes by establishing purchasing experts at Singapore, center of the world's rubber market. Firestone puts the best in workmanship into tubes by organizing the crack manufacturing organization of the industry on a profit-sharing basis.

And then subjects the finished product to this big-scale road test—in order to get you more for your tube money and more miles out of your tires. And yet Firestone Tubes cost no more than the ordinary kind.

Mr. Dodson Warns Against Use of Treacherous, Dangerous Calomel.

Calomel caltrop! It's money. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with your bile it cracks into it, causing cramping and nausea.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all kinds of things go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and constipated tomorrow; besides, it may envenom you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tonic you will walk up feeling great, full of ambition and ready for work or play. It's harmless, pleasant and safe to give to children; they like it.

BUCHANAN
One of the prettiest gatherings of the season was the one of Sunday, July 11, at which time the 65th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Sarah Agnes Victoria Black was celebrated at her beautiful country estate in eastern Kentucky. The affair was made doubly interesting owing to the presence of each of the four children of the household. Three generations were represented.

The dinner table was a scene of beauty being spread in the handsomest linen, silver and cut glass. The center of which bore a handsome plateau of graceful ferns and sweet peas with sweetheart rose buds.

A feast consisting of several courses, was faultlessly served to the guests fortunate enough to have been invited, who were: Mrs. Black and husband, honored guests, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ennis Calhoun of Huntington, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Black of Portsmouth, Mrs. Henrietta Blankenship of Louisa, Mr. and Mrs. John Andrew Riddle of Ashland, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Francis Hatten, Mr. and Mrs. J. PICNIC DISHES.

At this time of year when the lure of the woods and stream calls us to pack our lunch baskets and hike us out into the open, a satisfying lunch is one of the necessities.

Stuffed Eggs. Hard-cooked eggs cut in halves lengthwise, the yolks removed, are mixed with creamed butter, pepper and salt, a bit of mustard and cayenne, then the whites are filled roundly then well with the mixture. They may be filled and put together in halves, wrapped in waxed paper twisted at the ends.

A salad is always a welcome dish for a picnic. Potato salad seems to be the one most often served. Take cold, boiled potatoes, cut in cubes, add one small onion, a cucumber, both cut fine, salt and pepper to season and a handful of blanched almonds shredded. Add a little French dressing to the potato to marinate it. Let it stand for an hour or two, then add a rich, well-seasoned boiled dressing or a mayonnaise. Chives may be used instead of onions if preferred.

Gingers. Cream one-half cupful of butter, one-half cupful of sugar. Add one well-beaten egg, one tablespoonful of milk, one cupful of flour, a pinch of salt, a teaspoonful of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of vanilla. Beat well and drop by teaspoonfuls upon a buttered sheet. Decorate with blanched almonds cut in strips.

A small cake which is always liked for outings is this: Prepare any sponge cake mixture and bake in gem pans. When cold split open and remove some of the crumb. Fill with crushed strawberries and sweetened whipped cream. The better way is to carry the filling and finish the cakes just before serving. It takes but a few moments.
